By Telegraph to The Freeman.
 Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 14.—With fireboats playing streams of water upon freight and coal yards of the Lehigh Valley railroad, endangered by fire, and with help speeding to the city from half a dozen towns, had salvaged from their destroyed homes.
 Fire apparatus from New York City reported enroute to Jersey City this afternoon.
 Ten tugs and fireboats were at work along the waterfront.
Workers Driven Out.

men of Jersey City fought with desperation this afternoon to check the conflagration, which after three hours, still raged beyond control, threatening the entire downtown industrial district.

Damage done by the blaze has gone far into the millions, fire department officials said. Hundreds of homes and virtually penniless, the frame dwellings in which they lived, with all their effects, were destroyed.

A series of terrific explosions which shook the entire lower section of the city was followed by an exodus of thousands of factory workers and frightened tenants. Dense clouds of smoke and acrid acid fumes loomed when the flames reached a chemical plant nearby drove them, gasping and with tears streaming down their faces, far from the fire area.

Police said the fire was the greatest Jersey City has seen since Black Tom let go on the morning of July 30, 1916.

After an hour's fight, firemen

Thirty in Hospitals.
Thirty persons, most of them men, were in hospitals. Five great factories and warehouses were ravaged by flames, and fear was pressed that the fire might spread to the great plant of Colgate and company, occupying two city blocks.

Reports that looters were active in the deserted homes caused issuance of an order by Police Chief Richard T. Matersby to "shoot to kill."

A terrific explosion in the saltpetre refinery of Battelle and Renwick, at Warren and Morris streets, started the fire. Police said they believed the factory workers escaped without any harm. The explosion was caused by an accumulation of saltpetre in the refinery. A squad of men to the fire area to dynamite the sugar refinery and other buildings in the path of the flames, in an effort to check their spread.

Fumes Drive Firemen Back.

Firemen who tried to approach the vicinity of the factory were driven back by dense, acrid fumes. From a distance they shot streams

Explosive Felled Firemen.
A series of explosions which plattered flame-tipped acids far and wide, shook the lower part of the city, felled firemen, and drove crowds back for hundreds of feet.
Flames, attaining great height, swept across street intersections at the points while buildings in two directions were being consumed.
A series of explosions hurled flaming embers hundreds of feet.

Big Plants Destroyed. The wallpaper works, the Richards chemical Company plant, the Hoppe Box factory, the American Refining Company Works, and the warehouses owned by Colgate the sugar company were among buildings destroyed.

Shortly before 1 o'clock, a squad began laying fuses for a mine blast intended to raze the refinery and other structures in path of the flames in an effort to clear a space over which the flames did not leap.

Red Cross Workers Active.

Of Cross workers in attendance, it was reported that the following had been ordered from their homes:

"Shoot to Kill" Looters.

Report of looting of deserted apartments led to issuance of an order by Police Chief Richard J. Battersby police to "shoot to kill."

Several arrests of looters were reported.

Hundred of refugees, who lost their efforts in the fire, were cared Pupils of Public School Number 16, a block from the fire, marched to the street in orderly array after a fire alarm had been given. The school, it was feared, may be destroyed.

Policeman Rescues Boy.
Lieutenant Walter Cleulich in-tormented when he saw an excited woman struggling with a policeman at the edge of the fire area. He spoke to her in Polish, then ran to the building at 106 Morris street, near the factory, sped four flights of a fire escape and brought down six-year old Czeslaw Slominski, who had been overcome by smoke at the window. The child was taken to the City Hosre works, said the fire started in a sub-cellar of the plant and that many other employees had just managed to escape in the moment when they reached the street, he said, the roof of the factory was hurled skyward by an explosion.

Still Spreading at 1:30 p. m.

At 1:30 o'clock the fire still was spreading. A large addition to the hospital.

Fire Spreads Rapidly.

Within a few minutes after they had caught fire, an eight story brick warehouse of the sugar refinery and a fire story storage warehouse occupied by Colgate and Company, were blazing so fiercely that hope of saving them was abandoned.

Abandon Burning Block.

Firemen abandoning the entire block bounded by Washington, Essex, Sussex and Warren streets, turned their streams of water upon buildings in adjoining squares.

Fire Fighters Injured:

William Quinn, commissioner of public safety, was hurled to the ground as a terrific explosion blew out a section of wall in the sugar mill building.

A fire class

Some 500 refugee families, including many had perished, as was consistently reported. They were busy reuniting parents and almost 150 lost children found wandering in the fire zone.

Scene Like Baittefield.

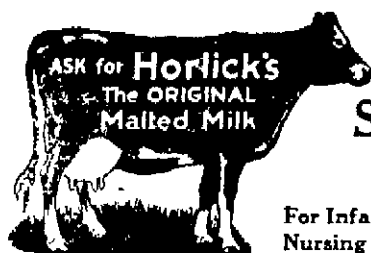

The path swept by the fire in its passage toward the waterfront was one of destruction rivaling those of Baittefield, during the

In one block only parts of walls were left standing, and now and then one of these scavenged away, with a roar which sounded above the constant pop of exploding chemicals. Electricity and power wires lay in a dead mass along highways, sputtering dangerously, and endangering stricken refugees, laden

AMERICA'S BEST KNOWN VEHICLE

Silvery Shenandoah Has Been Watched by Millions of People.

Washington, D. C.—Already America's best known vehicle is the Shenandoah, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington (D. C.) headquarters.

"Hundreds of thousands have seen some of the country's 'crack' trains and giant liners; literally millions have watched the silvery Shenandoah steel silently across the sky," says a communication to the society.

"Incidentally, the Shenandoah and the ZR-3 are not, strictly speaking, dirigibles. They are technically called rigid airships.

"The Shenandoah comprises many wonder stories of modern science. Its length, 280 feet, is two-thirds that of the Leviathan, yet its weight of only 37 tons is a tiny fraction of the Leviathan's 50,000 tons.

Hangar Near Capitol's Size.

"To house it and a bigger sister ship to come, a hangar was built in a clearing of the New Jersey woods, which building is 201 feet longer than the United States Capitol building just two feet less than the Capitol's widest part, and more than two-thirds as high. The sliding doors at one end weigh 1,300 tons.

"As the airship floats mysteriously overhead, it looks like a magnificent cigar, wrapped in tin foil, with six tiny baskets suspended from it. Inside the covering are 20 great gas bags with a total gas capacity equal to the cubic contents of a train of 700 freight cars. These are interspersed with from 40 to 78 gasoline tanks and a complement of one-ton water tanks.

"This equipment is supported by a metal framework which is a veritable maze of girders, struts and beams, there are 3,000 struts alone in the intricate design.

"It is for this metal framework that duralumin is used—an alloy so light and strong that a girder 16 feet long can be balanced on one's little finger, yet if the tips are placed on blocks it will bear the load of eight men sitting upon it.

"In one of its six cars is a photographic laboratory, so that motion-picture reels and photographs may be developed on board and the pictorial story of a flight be ready when the ship lands, or even thrown overboard by parachutes at designated places. Another car has a sound-proof radio compartment with a powerful sending apparatus and telegraphic instruments.

"The most astonishing mechanical contrivance on the Shenandoah is the newly installed water-recovery apparatus, which replaces the gasoline burned with an equivalent weight of water, and thus saves the valuing of precious helium.

"You will recall from your chemistry courses that gasoline consists of hydrogen and carbon. When gasoline is burned, the carbon combines with some of the oxygen from the air to form carbon dioxide, and the hydrogen, with other oxygen, forms water.

"Automobilists notice in cold weather that their exhaust pipes steam. Occasionally the moisture freezes and forms a frostlike ring on the vent. The apparatus for recovering water on the Shenandoah consists of several tiers of long, light pipes, exposed to the cooling air, so that the superheated steam condenses and fills water tanks. This manufactured water compensates for the weight of the gasoline consumed.

"Formerly, as fuel was burned, the ship grew lighter and tended to rise. Therefore the gas expanded, and it was necessary to release enough helium to equalize the lift of the gas to the weight of the ship.

"Even though helium cost has been brought from a radiumlike luxury price of $81 for a thousand cubic feet, the amount the Shenandoah had to valve on long trips was an expensive operating item. On its St. Louis visit, for example, 200,000 cubic feet of helium had to be valued. The water-recovery device means a saving on one such trip of $16,200—enough to pay for the experimentation and installation of the mechanism."

Fleets to "Fight" Before Cruise to South Seas

San Pedro—Before the departure of the United States fleet on its 20,000-mile cruise to the Antipodes next April, the scouting and battle fleets will "fight" for control of the California coast. It was announced by Admiral Robert E. Coontz, commander in chief, on his arrival here aboard the flagship Seattle.

The two fleets will make contact somewhere between Los Angeles and Panama during the fortnight of February 25-March 12, the admiral said. Under command of Vice Admiral W. A. McQuay, the scouting fleet, playing the role of an enemy force, will attempt to slip past the defending fleet in command of Rear Admiral S. S. Robinson, and when the resultant "battle" is over naval experts will endeavor to determine whether or not California's cities and harbors have been saved from the foe.

After completion of the maneuvers the fleets will proceed to this base for machinery overhaul, and then depart on April 3 for Australia, New Zealand and Samoa, via San Francisco and Hawaii.

Flushing Ewes to Bring More Lambs

Flock Owners Always Interested in Any Plan to Increase Crop.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Flock owners are usually interested in anything that will increase the lamb crop. A bulletin put out by the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington on "Flushing Ewes and Other Means of Increasing Lamb Yields," Bulletin 996, gives the results of tests with 17 groups of ewes.

Gain Made by Ewes.

Ewes not fed in breeding season gained 1.7 pounds and had a 129 per cent lamb crop. Those getting feed of various kinds gained eight pounds per head and had a 147 per cent lamb crop. In terms of 1,000 sheep, this would mean 280 more lambs. The ewes got only one-half pound of grain per day at that time.

It made little difference how the ewes were fed so long as they gained. Some got extra pasture, some were fed oats, some corn and oats, and some various mixtures of corn, oats, bran and linseed meal. In the grain fed lots as well as in the pasture lots, some were above the 147 per cent average and some below, showing that the kind of feed was not important.

"Flushing" is an old English term and originally meant turning the ewes on some special green forage crop just before breeding season. In the government experiments the pasture-flushed ewes did better some years. Other years the grain-fed ewes had more lambs.

Have Ewes Gaining.

The main thing seemed to be not to have the ewes in high flesh but to have them gaining in flesh. Of those that gained from one to seven pounds, 34 per cent produced twin lambs. Of those gaining seven to thirty pounds, 44 per cent had twins. The two poorest lots among those getting extra feed were ewes that were already in high flesh.

Old ewes had a higher proportion of twins than did young ewes. There was very little difference between the breeds as to the number of twins dropped. The Dorsets stood at the top, however, with the fine woolled breeds at the bottom. The rams did not seem to influence the number of twins produced.—Charles I. Bray, Animal Husbandry, Colorado Agricultural College.

How Butter Is Formed by Tiny Globules of Fat

Milk really consists of a number of very tiny globules of fat, each one enclosed in a thin "skin," floating in a fluid. If the milk be left to stand, a certain number of these globules rise to the surface and become cream, or the separations can be made artificially.

The cream is then churned, and the violent motion breaks the skins of the globules so freeing the particles of fat. These particles, under proper conditions (the temperature must be right, and the cream must contain a proportion of acid) then become adhesive and stick to each other. The result, after treatment by hardening with a little cold water, washing and probably salting, is what we call butter.

What is left is buttermilk, or the fluid that has been robbed of its fat.

Roughage for Sheep

Shredded corn fodder is very much more adapted to feeding these sheep than timothy hay. But to make a really good roughage, about 50 per cent of the roughage should consist of good legume hay, such as alfalfa or clover. If this is impossible, you can make up for it in the grain ration, of course, with a little extra quantity of oats. A little bonemeal or partly ground limestone should be given. Allowing the ewes free access to corn fodder, you should adjust the grain ration to the point where a good condition is maintained.

Getting Rid of Mice

To rid the chicken house of mice keep the feed in the mouseproof bins. Prevent the mice from multiplying by removing their breeding places. These will be found under boxes, boards, loose flooring and the like. If a good cat or two can be kept around the premises, they will help hold the mice in check. The use of good traps is recommended, but not poison, unless it can be handled in such a way as to make sure that the fowls will not get access to it.

Large Yield of Milk

In order to secure a large yield of milk, it is quite as important that the cow or herd is handled properly as that proper feeding is practiced. There have been many instances where the best cows were kept, and where good methods of feeding were practiced; and still results fell far short of what might be expected, simply because the animals did not receive that kindly treatment which is so essential to a cow giving much milk for a long period.

Keep Best Milk Producers

The dairyman who put a sign on his barn with the slogan "A cow that enters through this door must milk ten thousand pounds or more" set a goal for himself. We can't all have every cow a 10,000-pound producer, but we can eliminate the poorest and keep the best producers in the herd.

THE AIRPLANE'S ROAR.

An article in Science discusses with seemingly assured expectation the turning of harsh noises into sweet sounds through the employment of "spectral echoes"—what ever they may be—as a result of which "all harshness or more noise disappears, and only the tones and overtones swell and linger hauntingly." These latter being "purer in musical quality than any notes made by an orchestra in a concert hall." It seems too good to be true, but if true—if this be a real invention that may be perfected, and not a mere aspiration of such stuff that poets' dreams are made of—let us hope that no time will be lost in grabbing it and attaching it to every passenger aeroplane.

For the one drawback of the passenger aeroplane—now that flying has become reasonably safe—is the harsh and deafening beat of the motor. The motion of the aeroplane in straight flying is entirely agreeable, the exhilarating lift into the blue is altogether delightful, and from on high the beauty of the earth becomes incredible in its perfection, particularly when the reds and golds of autumn are intoxicatingly mingled with the green. But the terrible beat of the motor, which annihilates all other sound and rudely bores into one's very ear-drums, brings the atmosphere of hell into the otherwise altogether heavenly. If only the sound of the motor can be gutted, or somehow modified, perhaps made "sweet and low" by the proposed new invention, flying will become an unalloyed joy.

STUDY OF AMERICAN CRIME.

The United States "must plead guilty to being the most lawless nation on earth," according to Judge "Pie" of the New York Court of General Sessions. This assertion has been amply supported by the statistical comparisons of our crime records with those of other countries. It would naturally be supposed, therefore, that American criminology receives wide investigation and a serious study, for it is but a short time since that the first of the reduction of crime should be a thorough study of its extent, its causes and its cures. But apparently one of the critical problems has been neglected, there have been no real researches in crime by the government or private agencies. On this subject the New York Times says:

The body of scientific knowledge of crime and criminals in this country is lamentably small in comparison with the urgency of the need of its use. Except for unstandardized and often incomplete city police records, the United States, in striking contrast to other civilized countries, has no criminal statistics. The Federal Government publishes exhaustive compilations of the number of eggs laid and chickens hatched in every State of the Union every year; it compiles the humidity records for each city in the Union; and it records with mathematical thoroughness the output of gum turpentine in each region of the United States; but the only attempt which it has made to publish information about crime and criminals is a census report on the number of persons confined in jails and almshouses. Nor have private agencies undertaken any thoroughgoing scientific studies of crime in the United States.

The French gave Anatole France the funeral of an emperor and in the view of the Italians d'Annunzio is almost a bigger man than Mussolini, but in England there is nothing like such appreciation of even the very greatest men of letters, and in the United States our leading literary celebrities are persons of very small consequence in the view of the masses. However, Michigan University has provided a life fellowship for Robert Frost which does not require him to teach and leaves him free to devote himself to poetry.

It is stated that in this country the number of native whites of full native white parentage and of voting age is approximately 24,000,000, while the number of white voters of foreign parentage, plus white voters of half foreign parentage, plus negro voters, plus voters born abroad but now naturalized, is approximately 19,000,000. In consequence nearly half of the country's voters can be reached only by some sort of special argument based on race or on European rather than on American political issues.

The two first women Governors, Mrs. Ferguson of Texas and Mrs. Ross of Wyoming, both elected by Democrats, are referred to in a headline as "the two Governors," but whether "Governors" Ferguson and "Governess" Ross will submit to being so addressed remains to be seen. It is rather unfortunate for them that when our language was invented or got its growth neither the nineteenth amendment nor women members of Parliament were dreamed of.

HEALTH AND WEALTH.

A wealthy business man was consulting a physician in a distant city. After the consultation, he asked the physician, "When shall I come again?"

The physician said "When will you be in this city again?"

Just the very day and hour you want me to come."

"What about your business?"

"I've only got one business in life at present, and that is to get well, and at my best physically. Nothing else really matters."

He was past sixty and had many interests.

However for the preceding couple of years he had been ailing, first with one little sickness or infection, and then another. An accident and a couple of operations, had brought him below par physically, but he knew what he wanted, and intended to get it, and that was the ordinary good health he had previously enjoyed.

I sometimes think that in these days of hustle after business and money, that that big asset, good health, is sometimes not considered.

It was Emerson I believe who said "Give me good health and a day, and I will make the pomp of emperors ridiculous."

And after all, what is worth more to you than that feeling of wanting to get up in the morning to tackle things, that enjoyment of your meals, of recreation, and of sleep.

What has life in it that is worth more than to just feel good all the time?

It is hard to understand how men who are considered hard headed business men, have not figured this thing out from the business standpoint. I remember a young chap in the south whose uncle had left him one million dollars.

He attended gymnasium classes regularly, played golf during the season, was careful of his diet, and just generally enjoyed good health.

Speaking to me one day he said: "Do you know why I do these things?"

"Oh, just to feel well and up to your job," I said.

"Yes, I made up my mind to make another million dollars, and this is the best way to do it. My health is my biggest asset."

Think it over.

Mrs. Smith wanted to go to the movies. Mr. Smith said he had put in a hard day at the office and was tired and would rather sit at home and smoke.

Knowing the Smiths, anyone could have predicted that they would go to the movies.

"Let's sit down near the front," said Mrs. Smith.

"But I don't like to sit near the front," Mr. Smith protested. "When I do that the pictures hurt my eyes."

"Nonsense!" scoffed Mrs. Smith. "I like to be down close so I can watch the musicians."

Soon the two were seated within comfortable seeing distance of the orchestra.

"Oh, don't you just love to hear the rumble of the kettledrums?" Mrs. Smith gushed.

And then the worm turned, albeit ever so slightly.

"Too," Mr. Smith replied. "Keep quiet!"—Kansas City Star.

Unharmful by Long Falls

Among the classic English falls may be mentioned that of a steeplejack, who fell from the top of the church of St. George in Bolton-le-Moors to the ground, the whole distance traversed being some 120 feet.

The man's skull struck some sheet lead upon the earth and left its impact upon it, but though this fall was quite unbroken the man was only slightly injured and resumed work in a few days. Not long ago a man with his shoes on fell from the top of a cliff at Dover, the height of which was afterwards found to be 400 feet. He was picked up floating insensible in some five feet of water, but his shoes were off, which proves that he must have retained sufficient consciousness on reaching the water to enable him to draw his shoes from his feet.

LIVE STOCK

FARM ANIMALS MUST HAVE SALT SUPPLY

One of the most commonly used mineral elements with live stock and one with which we are all familiar is that of salt, or sodium chloride, this material supplying the elements, sodium and chlorine, which seem to be necessary for live stock. It has been a practice with successful stock men for centuries to supply common salt to all kinds of live stock, and while there is a considerable difference in opinion as to the necessity of this, it is considered a good practice, and from the experiments that have been conducted, is doubtless a necessary one.

Salt should not be given to animals in too large amounts, as it would induce the drinking of great quantities of water, which would lessen digestion, bring about abnormal secretion of digestive fluids and other undesirable results. There is no question but that salt improves the palatability of certain feeds, and probably increases the appetite in some cases.

Exhaustive experiments were made by Babcock and Carlyle of the Wisconsin experiment station, which proved conclusively that it is absolutely necessary to supply salt, especially to dairy cows, as in every case after withholding salt for a short time, these animals evidenced an abnormal appetite for it. Every one of them reached a point where vitality was extremely low and a general breakdown occurred. This occurred in most cases after several months. In every case, when either a potassium or sodium salt containing a chlorine was furnished, a complete recovery took place. This experiment brought out the fact that it was not the sodium, but that it was the chlorine that was necessary.

The amount of salt required by animals will vary considerably, according to the locality from which the feed is secured for them. It will also vary considerably, according to the production of the various individuals of the herd. The safest and most satisfactory manner in which to supply salt to live stock is to allow them access to it at all times, and when handled in this way, no bad results should follow.

It is well to keep in mind, however, that swine and poultry are very susceptible to salt poisoning, and for this reason only small amounts should be fed to them. In no case should swine or poultry be allowed free access to salt, or solutions of brine, as this is a dangerous practice. Many cases of salt poisoning in poultry and swine are reported each year and most of them are fatal.

Avoid Many Kinds of Pig Diseases by Sanitation

Under the present state of domestication the hog is subjected to more conditions that are detrimental to his health and predispose him to disease than any other of our domestic animals. His very nature also makes him liable to many of the diseases that are contracted by him.

The hog for centuries has been considered more or less in the light of a scavenger, eating feeds or refuse of any and all kinds, and much of it in a spoiled or decayed condition. In the earlier times most people were of the opinion that such practices were safe with the hog, but in later years we have discovered they are really the cause of large losses that were often attributed to other causes. Such practices are not as common as formerly, but are still too common for the best interests of the industry.

Sanitation, proper feeding and housing and providing for plenty of exercise are known means of avoiding many kinds of sickness, and are cheap in comparison with the loss they save and must be practiced if the industry is to be profitable in the long run.

Clean Ground for Pigs Is of Big Importance

Every farmer should without delay provide a sanitary farrowing place for fall litters, says E. G. Elling, swine specialist, Kansas State Agricultural college. Several hundred Kansas swine producers who followed Elling's instructions last spring are now that "clean" ground for young pigs is one of the essentials of profitable production. Their enthusiasm also, the method is selling the idea to the entire community, Mr. Elling says.

"Pigs nursing, sleeping, eating, and drinking in old hog quarters become unthrifty and subject to heavy loss. They are too young and tender to compete with the worm, lice, mange, scours, and thumps—their inheritance from unclean yards," Mr. Elling points out.

Safest Cattle Feeding

Feeding calves for the baby beef market is the safest kind of cattle feeding and a larger number of calves are being fed for the market this year than ever before. Feeders of this kind of cattle too often send them to market before they have become fat enough to command a price that will insure the large net returns. No other class of cattle is discriminated against so severely as a half-fat baby beef. The fatter the baby beef the more profit he makes.

Parish Hears of New Cathedral

Illustrated Lecture At St. John's Parish House On Progress Of Work At Cathedral of St. John The Divine, New York City.

Plans for the completion of the great Cathedral of St. John the Divine on Morningside Heights, New York city, were outlined in an illustrated lecture delivered Thursday night at St. John's Parish House, by the Rev. E. C. Chorley, D. D., under the auspices of the committee for completing the cathedral. T. A. Horton had charge of local arrangements.

The cathedral was chartered a half century ago under the laws of New York state, and its corner stone was laid in 1892. About one-quarter or one-third of this wonderful structure has thus far been built. Construction was interrupted by the World War, but was resumed last May, when work began on the baptistry, a beautiful unit on the north side of the cathedral.

The Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, Bishop of New York, announced recently that contractors had been asked to submit bids for the construction of the nave. The nave, which may be considered the long arm of the cross that the cathedral forms, will immensely increase the seating capacity. It will be 225 feet long, and its cost is estimated at $5,376,330. The completion of the entire cathedral is expected to cost $15,000,000.

Seats in the cathedral are free, and people of all denominations attend. The present seating capacity of the crossing is about 1,700, but as many as 3,500 have been accommodated when the ambulatory and chapels are thrown open. The completed cathedral will seat about 7,000, and will afford standing room for many thousands more. A system of amplifiers carries the preacher's voice throughout the building.

The slides illustrating the speaker's lecture showed the beauties of the portions already built, and the plans for completion. The cathedral will be 601 feet long, with a floor area of nearly 110,000 square feet and a central tower 500 feet high. Only St. Peter's at Rome and the Cathedral of Seville will be larger. The slides illustrated details of carving in wood and stone, wrought iron screens and costly tapestries.

Seven richly ornamented chapels radiate from the apse, or eastern end of the cathedral, and are complete in construction and furnishing. Stones from famous quarries of America and Europe and from ancient English cathedrals have been set by the builder in choir and chapels. Tourists come to marvel at the windows of stained glass.

Expressed Nation's Faith
"In God we trust" first appeared on coins of this country in 1864. S. P. Chase, secretary of the treasury, addressed a letter to the director of the mint at Philadelphia stating that our coinage should bear a motto expressing in the fewest words that no nation can be strong except in the strength of God. This particular motto was finally decided upon. It first appeared upon a two-cent piece.

Operator, Please get Mr. King-don man on the wire, please.

Hello, this is "DAVE" calling.

Yes.

Well, how about that overcoat?

It's not time yet, DAVE.

Not time, why it snowed last Sunday.

I know, but it's not cold enough.

Now, listen! You darn well know it's too cold to go in the street without one.

Well, anyway, I'm going to get one later in the season.

Yes, and get one that's left over. Buy now and get the "cream" of the lot.

Anyway, I can at least get them cheaper later on.

No, you can't. Prices going up every day, everything advancing.
Why, look at the stock market,
stocks going up every day.

Then that won't affect me, I have last year's overcoat.

You don't mean to tell me that you're going to wear last year's coat. Why, think of your wife's feelings when you walk with her in that shabby old coat, she won't feel happy. Is she around, I'd like to speak to her.

Yes, just a moment—Hello,
Dave.

Hello, your husband tells me he wants to wear last year's coat.

To tell the truth Dave, money is kind of close now and I don't think we can afford a new coat.

That's the least worry, all you have to do, is to make a small deposit and we'll lay it aside for you and before you know it, he'll be wearing it.

Can we do that, Dave?

Why certainly.

I need something else in the line of furnishings for him, Dave.

Well, I have anything you need,
Suits, Pants, Underwear, Hosiery,
Shoes and everything.

What have you in a nice dress for him?

Have the "Osteo-path-ik" Shoe with a nail in the shoe.

What style is it?

Any style you want.

Well, all right, just a minute.

Dave, my husband wants to speak.

Well, Dave, I think I'll come up tomorrow to see those coats. To be frank, I didn't want to buy anything at your place. I bought a pair of pants, something you told me would not rip, and they ripped to pieces.

Say, you make me sore. Don't you know enough to come back and get a new pair FREE. Anything we say is good, is good, or else we make it good.

Well, I'll be up tomorrow, then
Dave.

All right, I'll use you "white."

Say, how about the prices?

I have any price you want from as low as $16 to as high as $60.

And styles?

We also have any style you want and honest, our values can't be beat.

You'll see me there tomorrow then. So long, Dave.

So long!

"ASK FOR DAVE."

HISTORIC SLOOP IS DUG FROM SANDS AT MONTEREY

Supposed to Be the Ship on Which Napoleon Bonaparte Escaped From Elba.

Monterey, Cal.—The historic French sloop Natalie, said to have been the vessel on which Napoleon escaped from exile on the island of Elba in 1815, was dug from the surf sands of Monterey bay here recently. Parts of the old craft were salvaged for museum purposes.

For the third time in the last 25 years the tides had exposed the hulk, at least what the waters of nearly 100 years had left of it, and H. J. Lep-pert, a blacksmith, took advantage of the opportunity. Wading out into the water he saw the sands slowly were covering the timbers and realized that by morning there probably would not be a trace of the vessel in sight.

He returned to his shop, got a jack-screw and a crowbar and enlisted the aid of three friends. The four men worked until nearly midnight, with the high tide about their shoulders and necks, before they succeeded in forcing loose the teakwood stumps of the Natalie.

Finally they assembled on the beach eleven "knees," four large timbers, thirteen copper bolts and smaller parts of the vessel.

A remarkable feature was the perfect preservation of the copper bolts, which showed no signs of corrosion after the tides of a century had washed them. The men reported that other portions of the Natalie were too deeply embedded to be removed.

The Natalie was blown ashore here in 1833, when the crew, a gang of smugglers from Mexico, abandoned her to attend a Cascarone ball at Monterey. As the crew danced at the old Spanish fiesta, a storm arose and the vessel was beached.

She was subsequently dismantled and part of her timber was used to build the Abrego house in Monterey.
Her bow is in the M. H. de Young Memorial museum in Golden Gate park, San Francisco.

Shifting Desert Sands Threaten Western Town

Los Angeles—Kelso, a community of about 500 people situated on the Mojave desert, northeast of here, is threatened with destruction by the shifting sands of the desert.

Three years ago a huge pile of sand, approximately half a mile square, was noticed drifting near Kelso. Constant winds, blowing across the town and into the hot pit of Death valley, a few miles away, were slowly moving the sand toward Kelso.
The winds still blow, and it is believed that at the rate the dune is moving it will cover Kelso with 50 feet of sand within the next five years unless the preparations being made to ward off the menace are successful.

Its Origin Uncertain

The phrase "Lynch law" has been variously traced to a Virginia soldier and to a Virginia farmer of that name, to one Lynch, who was sent out from England about 1687 to suppress piracy, and to a mayor of Galway, in Ireland;
while yet another tradition refers it to Lynch creek in North Carolina, where the torments of a court-martial and execution were gone through over the lifeless body of a Tory, who had already been precipitated hanged to prevent a rescue—Chamber's Encyclopædia.

Clock in Sidewalk

Thousands walk over the northeast corner of Maiden lane and Broadway in New York and never know that they are stepping on the face of a clock. This clock measuring about two feet across, is covered with glass an inch thick. The hour and minute hands are painted jet black. Because of the dust and dirt the clock is scarcely discernible during the daylight hours, but at night it is illuminated and is a useful teller of time.

FAMILIAR LINES IN EARLY SCHOOLBOOKS

Middle-Aged Find Charm in Simple Sayings.

Old time schoolbooks were likely to contain painfully solemn and didactic sayings. It was abhorrent to their conscientious compilers. But in our day they afford amusing reading.

Lindley Murray, a grave and heavy-minded Quaker, was averse not only to laughter but to smiles, in a foot note to the once-famous Lindley Murray's English reader he carefully apologized for a brief passage that he feared was too playfully expressed. But no one who read the passage and the footnote could ever discover the playfulness. Modern readers, however, can discover a good many passages that are the cause of mirth, however unwhimsically they were intended. He desired to be impressive in his account of Niagara falls, he gave its height and pronounced a eulogy upon its grandeur, and then he provided a complete anti-climax by adding, "It is said that the Indians have sometimes passed down it in their canoes in safety."

Some little time ago a reminiscent writer in the New York World declared that the Webster spelling book and the Webster reader had doubtless had the longest history of any schoolbooks in the United States—once covering at least three full generations.

How familiar, after you pass the alphabet page, these lines appear to us. "Am I to go in? I am to go in."
"She fed the old hen." "The hen was fed by her." "Ann can hem my cap."
"She has a new fan." "Fire is a burning wood and coal." "Coal and wood will make a fire." "Will you help me pin my frock?" "The good girl may jump the rope." "Bakers bake bread and cakes." "I like to play in the shady grove." "Cider is made of apples."
"A tiger will kill and eat a man."
"Ann can spin flax." "A shad can swim." "Cotton velvet is very soft to the feel." "We can burn fish oil in lamps." "Never pester the little boys."
"I had some green corn in July on a plate."

The obviousness and simplicity of those sayings have now a distinct charm. But they were gauged, it must be remembered, for infantile minds not long graduated from the cradle. Some changes in society have taken place since they were written.
Ann cannot spin flax now, because that crop has lost its prevalence, and we no longer burn fish oil, but when gas and electricity are not in hand use oil of another sort. A shad can still swim, but he now swims with rare and rarer frequency and very soon will not swim at all unless we stop polluting our streams and waterways.

Readers for older children often included selections that from their terrifying, puzzling or too ornately rhetorical qualities we should not deem suitable nowadays. Children often read these "elegant extracts" without understanding them or even trying to understand them. A grandmother of today was told by her mother of the extreme amazement with which long after she had grown up she came in her reading upon a passage with which she had been familiar since her little girlhood and found that it really meant something and, more astonishing still, that she enjoyed it—Youth's Companion.

Was skeptical of Kellogg's Bran until it gave him back his health

Naturally Mr. Carter—whose letter follows—was skeptical. He had tried practically everything for the relief of constipation. All had failed. But Kellogg's Bran brought him permanent relief, just as it has done for thousands of others. Read his letter:

Gentlemen:
I am 43 years old, and have been for years a great sufferer from constipation. I had to resign a clerical position because of rashes of blood to my head, some of which caused me to fall to the ground. I took an outdoor laboring job and tried for the first time, skeptically I admit, your Krumbled Bran. The result has been wonderful. I began to be normal after I had been on the Bran about three days. No more rashes, no more Old Dr. Senné's Pills. Excess sale by the two, etc., of insinuation! You have the most wonderful product for constipation I have ever seen or tried. Yours very gratefully,

L. T. Carter, 294 Nineteenth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, does not irritate the intestines like drugs and pills. It acts exactly as nature acts. Eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer will return your money. You will like the exclusive, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Sold by all grocers. Made in Battle Creek.

"INDIVIDUALITY OF DRESS"

Avoid Meaningless Trimming
If You'd Appear Well Dressed

Meaningless trimmings are inartistic on any dress. Trimmings should seem a part of the dress, and not simply an afterthought. Flying trimmings are especially inappropiate when worn by the statuette girl. She enhances her looks fifty per cent when she wears the simple, classic lines.

Frocks for Girls Attending School

Simple Costumes Favored for Teas and Parties on Campus.

There is a genuine and delightful informality about the clothes of the college girl on her own campus that is apparent nowhere else, notes a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. Which does not mean that the fair undergraduate is oblivious to the changes of the mode, but rather that her interpretations of the latest quirks of fashion are more liberal than orthodox.

The only specialized problem about the undergraduate's dress concerns her costumes which are to be worn for intracollege occasions. These are divided into two categories, the first and least important of which is the recreation outfit. This should be simple, substantial and unostentatious. Under the same classification come the athletic costumes, which will vary according to the sports and outdoor activities which prevail at the different colleges. If the new student is not thoroughly informed on these matters, it is advisable to procure this information from a member of one of the upper classes or the dean, after which the selection of suitable dresses, sweaters and the like becomes a simple matter.

The real problem of college dress, however, has to do with the clothes which are to be worn at the intramural functions, such as the freshman reception, the junior tea and similar affairs, which belong strictly to the college proper and at which no outsider dare intrude. These are not social affairs—indeed, it is hard to define them, they have an atmosphere so entirely their own. The fashionable frocks of the daisies or the theater would be obviously out of place in this picture, and yet lively, attractive costumes are an absolutely essential setting, as any undergraduate can testify.

The solution of this dilemma is a charming compromise which probably had its genesis in the mind of some frugal junior. It is to wear the light, simpler clothes at all college activities which take place within the boundaries of the campus. These costumes may also be appropriately worn for outside informal affairs during the first weeks of the winter semester. They answer a double purpose. Not only do they endow the intracollege entertainments at the university with the necessary unpretentious charm, but they also provide an economical outlet for the late summer clothes of the undergraduate.

Dress of White Crepe Satin With Rosettes of Fringed Silk.

A typical jeune fille model which could be attractively worn by freshman or sophomore is the beautifully simple dress of white crepe satin trimmed with flower-like rosettes of fringed silk. A sort of tablier, or overskirt, is made of three bands of the crepe satin and is attached to the dress by means of these rosettes. Each band heads and ends in a flower motif. The effect is one of exquisite simplicity.

To Suit the Gown

The well-dressed woman of today adapts her underwear carefully to the prevailing style of gown. With the present fancy for the slim and slender in outline, points to be avoided in underwear are: Gathering strings at the waistline, stiff outstanding fabrics (like taffetas), over-decoration of any kind, such as ruffles, flounces, elaborate lace trims, tucks, anything which will cause a bulkiness to outer wear, unless the finest pin tuckings.

In White and Black

Though black lingerie has not absolutely returned, it is coming back little by little. For instance, some of the new underthings are in white georgette with deep yokes of black chancilly lace.

Winsome Apron Is Made of Silk and Georgette

Here is a fetching apron that will help to dress up a frock and at the same time serve as a protection. It is made of silk with a layer of georgette over that. The decoration is done in cross-stitches on the silk. Two oblongs are needed of each material. The one is seven inches deep and as wide as you want in order to give protection to the front of the frock. The other is half again as wide, or one width of each of the materials. Stamp and stitch the design on the silk. Baste the two small and the two larger oblongs together. Have all edges plicated.

Dainty Apron That Will Help Dress Up Missy's Frock.

Join the larger oblong to the smaller with overhand stitches. Attach one end of each of two ribbons to the upper corners of the smaller oblong. Cross the ribbons and sew the other ends to the joining of the oblongs at each side. The ribbons should be just long enough to hold the apron in place.

Average Skirt Is Now About Fourteen Inches

There is a general agreement among the Paris designers, writes a fashion authority in the New York Herald-Tribune, that the skirt length shall be shorter and the average skirt is now abbreviated at about fourteen inches above the ground. The slender outline continues and has an imposing list of sponsors, but the flared hemline and the wide skirt have also been launched. Paton, Charlotte, Lanvin, Worth and Chanel are among the authorities promulgating this slightly different silhouette, and their names augur well for its future.

The waistline is still subject to varied interpretations, but the most distinctive sartorial touch is the directoire, or high waist, and it is featured prominently in the collections of Premet, Bechoff, Polret, Anna, Cheruit, Martini et Armand and Charlotte. The sleeve is of primary importance to the new mode. The long, tight sleeve is the dominating type, but it is subject to some artistic and interesting manipulations. Paton and Agnes show the tightness through the entire length of the sleeve. Callot makes it tight below the elbow and full above it, while Lanvin exactly reverses this order.

Numerous types of tunics are featured. Some are flared and some are straight, but practically every designer has included the tunic frock in his or her collection. Among some, notably Agnes and Polret, the tunic is the outstanding characteristic. The ensemble remains for another season. This idea gathered rapid momentum during the later weeks of the summer, and in these days of the simple silhouette it is appreciated by the woman who insists upon some exclusive touch to her costume which cannot be easily copied. Practically every important designer sponsors the ensemble in some form.

Spanish Shawl Supplies Motif for Newest Scarf

The inevitable Spanish shawl is supplying the motif for the newest scarf wrap for evening and dressy afternoon costumes. More fragile than the crepes and oriental silks printed in patterns like the embroidery on the old Manila manteau, this latest version is of lace of the finest gossamer quality, and the most luscious shade of ivory. In it are reproduced the designs of the heavily embroidered shawls, the huge flowers, arabesques and delicate tracings, with the conventional border with scalloped edge.

These shawls are lovely—the most poetic hits in the form of wrap, decorative and elaborating as a final touch to any dress. The oblong scarfs are also shown in this lace treatment, usually wide and long, and are taking the place of the original scarf, smaller in size, of genuine Spanish lace. Few of these are shown now in the antique white. The dyed scarfs in the most vivid colors—greens, orange, purple and vermilion—are the most effective.

Velvet Powder Kerchiefs

The latest thing in powder puffs is the velvet ribbon powder kerchief. It is made of a square of velvet ribbon in the light shades. Or squares of velvet ribbon edging may be used. It is said that the skin of the face is protected by the velvet kerchief, as it will not scratch the skin. The best-known beauty specialists are reported to have taken up the use of the velvet ribbon as a puff. Seven-inch velvet ribbon or even narrower should be used for the puff. An edging of lace or some attractive narrow ribbon of satin or moire adds to the attractiveness of this novel handkerchief.

The only difference between a Rut and a Grave is in the width and depth. Get out of the Rut.

A henpecked husband is a man whose nerve is in his wife's name.

Two Responsible Positions.

Abie—My boy Ike is a director in a bank.

Adams—Vell, vat does he do?

Abie—He directs postal cards.

Adams—My boy is a draft clerk in a bank, too.

Abie—He is?

Adams—He is, yes. He opens the doors for the customers.

THE FUR SEASON HAS ARRIVED.

Luxury! That spells the keynote of the season! Never have daytime costumes been more richly befurred than they are now. Every known pelt in addition to those not so well known, seems to have been called into service and daily the ingenious ways in which the skins are worked become more apparent.

Fur decoration is not restricted to wraps, for naturally no wrap is considered complete without its touch of fur, but coat frocks and millinery

MT TREMPER.

Mt. Tremper, Nov. 13.—About one hundred residents of Mt. Tremper gathered in the hall Wednesday evening in response to an invitation from Mrs. Anna E. Weber to a very delicious chicken dinner. A month ago the same party responded to an early morning fire alarm and tried diligently to save the large dwelling house of Mrs. Weber. But in spite of the heroic work of the volunteer firemen the building was destroyed. Mrs. Weber gave this dinner in appreciation of their efforts. After the banquet the guests enjoyed special music, singing and old fashioned square dances. At a late hour the guests departed, giving three rousing cheers for Mrs. Weber and voting her a delightful hostess.

Priceless Manuscript
The Alexandrian Codex is a Greek manuscript of the Old and New Testaments, written on parchment in uncial letters, without accents and without spaces between the words. Its probable date is about 400, the Kansas City Star informs us. The Old Testament is in the translation of the Septuagint. This famous manuscript belonged in 1698 to the Patriarch of Alexandria. In 1621 it was taken to Constantinople by Cyrilus Lucaris, the patriarch; and in 1628 was given by him to Charles I of England. It was first placed in the Royal library; and in 1753 was transferred to the British museum.

Famous New England Woman
The first woman preacher of the gospel in New England and the first woman to be ordained to the Universalist ministry was Phoebe Ann Coffin Hanford, who was born at Nantucket, Mass., a member of the famous Coffin family of that island, 95 years ago. Before entering the pulpit she was a teacher and a lecturer. In 1808 she was ordained and filled pastorates at Hingham and Waltham, Mass.; New Haven, Conn., and Jersey City. She was also chaplain of the Connecticut state legislature, the first woman to hold such a position.

GOVERNMENT IN FILM BUSINESS

Department of Interior Has Produced 1,600,000 Feet of Pictures.

Washington, D. C.—Educational moving picture films for distribution to the public by the Department of Interior in its campaign of visual education have now reached over 1,600,000 feet, it was learned at the department.

For the last eight years the Department of Interior, through its various bureaus, has been getting out a series of films on different subjects of public interest. The bureau of Indian affairs has just completed a moving picture entitled, "The American Indian," which shows the evolution of the Indian, his life, education and social customs.

The national park service has produced several motion pictures depicting the natural scenery, roads and transportation facilities. The Alaska railroad has also for distribution an educational film showing the wonderful scenic effects along the line under the jurisdiction of the Interior department. It was taken during the late President Harding's trip to Alaska.

Films Teach School Methods.
The bureau of education has three films on educational subjects that are now being distributed throughout the country. One of the films shows rural supervisors at work on one teacher and rural consolidated schools and the methods employed by these supervisors to improve classroom instruction. This bureau has produced another film, titled "Better Schools for Farm Children," illustrating the courses and equipment necessary for schools in the farming districts. A third film gives the most effective methods of kindergarten teaching.

The bureau of mines, however, has built up the largest library of educational films, probably unsurpassed by any other government agency, for use in educational institutions for the purpose of giving pupils instruction regarding the nation's various industries. These films are distributed free. They are being shown in colleges, public schools and meetings of engineering societies, civic, military and religious organizations in every part of the United States.

Many Industries Give Aid.
Any industrial concern, the processes of which have educational value, may co-operate with the bureau in producing one of these pictures. The first industrial picture put out by the bureau of mines was in 1911. Since that time practically every large oil and coal company in the United States has co-operated in the production of educational films.

The subjects of the films cover almost every development in the country. Among the long list are included: The story of coal, petroleum, sulphur, iron, saving coal at home, the story of asbestos, rock drilling, abrasives, Mexico and its oil, the story of heavy excavating machinery, natural gas, oxygen, the electric meter, the watch, the automobile, compressed air, water power, transportation, steel, alloy steel, gasoline motors, safety first in the petroleum industry, motor trucks, fireclay refractories, the world's struggle for oil, the story of gasoline, the electric battery and heat treatment of steel.

Government to Build Prison on North Border
Malone, N. Y.—The United States government is soon to begin the erection of a large federal prison at Rouses Point, on the Canadian border, according to reports circulating through police circles in the North country.

The prison will be used to house the bootleggers, other types of smugglers and aliens now confined in Clinton, Essex, Franklin and St. Lawrence county jails.

The government is being practically forced to build a prison or detention house on the border because the sheriffs of the counties where the bulk of the arrests are being made have notified federal officials they cannot care for the prisoners sent them, the county jails being full to overflowing.

Mending an Umbrella
Broken joints between the brace and ribs of an umbrella can be repaired with friction tape, says Popular Science Monthly. Simply put the end of the brace where it belongs and wind tightly with the tape in such a way that the action of the joint will not be interfered with. The umbrella then can be opened and closed without difficulty and the repair will be found to last surprisingly well.

Fragrance in Flowers
Fragrance in flowers is determined by laws which are beyond human comprehension. It is not a quality peculiar to a family, but to individuals, or rather varieties in that family. Old varieties of roses were mostly fragrant; many of the newer and most beautiful are not. The older peonies were rather unpleasant in odor, but many of the newer varieties are deliciously perfumed.

RECORD DISASTER YEAR 'T RED CROSS BUSY

In 32 Places in United States
Its Relief Operations
Cost $737,603.

One hundred and ninety-two disasters resulting in 735 deaths and injury to 1,933 persons, rendering nearly 44,000 homeless and causing property losses estimated at more than $44,750,000, established a new record in the United States in the year ended last June 30, according to reports of the American Red Cross. In all of these disasters immediately relief activity was applied by the Red Cross, which expended $737,603.37 through the national organization and the local chapters in assisting stricken communities.

As the nation's chief relief agency, whose service covers over 43 years, the Red Cross is expected to be on duty almost as soon as disaster strikes any locality. This trust and confidence is amply justified by the increasing equipment of the Red Cross, which recently organized a mobile disaster unit of experienced workers ready in all parts of the country to respond on the instant to a call for active duty. This unit is capable of operating in several disaster areas under one general direction, and recently was at work in seven communities in five states at the same time.

Ability, alertness and increasing skill of volunteer workers in more than 3,500 chapters are reasons for the preparedness of Red Cross for disaster operations, be the call for a disturbance in a restricted local area or for millions in relief funds for a staggering catastrophe such as the earthquake in Japan.

The Red Cross, however, is far from being self-satisfied, for the organization is giving the most serious consideration to measures for preventing disasters. Its relief administration and rehabilitation policies have won for it nationwide regard. That this important work can always measure up to every demand needs the continued support of the American people through Red Cross membership. The annual enrollment will begin Armistice Day, November 11, and every American is urged to join or renew membership in the Red Cross.

Help yourself by helping others with your dollar Red Cross membership. The dividend in good works is guaranteed.

Children of 29,942 Schools Now Enrolled in Movement of Service to Humanity.

The American Junior Red Cross, which was organized as a children's auxiliary during war-times especially to help the young refugees in Europe, and to exemplify in peace-time the Red Cross ideal of service, has now a membership of 5,596,663 in the schools of the United States and the insular possessions.

This Junior movement gives opportunity for the children to share in Red Cross effort parallel to that of the parent organization. Juniors are therefore identified in varying degrees with the health services, disaster relief work, salvage and other suitable activities of value to the operations of the Red Cross.

It is a valiant host marching on under its "I Serve" banner in the cause of happier childhood everywhere and particularly wherever the American flag flies. The enrollment embraces 29,942 schools and 147,486 school rooms, a gain over 1923 of 5,655 schools and 22,414 school rooms. The year's gain in membership was 769,402 children, or nearly 80,000 for each month of the school year.

The educational and social values of the Junior Red Cross movement is thus evidencing the firm and cordial endorsement of school authorities. The government has added the weight of recognition by extending the Junior Red Cross in the schools for American Indian children. The American Red Cross is also planning to develop the Junior program in 600 rural schools, in isolated sections.

There is no abatement of the exchange of correspondence between schools in the United States and schools in the insular possessions and foreign lands. During the year the Junior Red Cross in part supported operations in twelve European countries. It is a potent influence for the cultivation of international goodwill and its example has been the means of stimulating the formation of Junior Red Cross societies in more than thirty countries.

RED CROSS RAISES $10,000,000 IN 21 DAYS FOR RELIEF

Terrible catastrophes, such as the Japanese earthquake, prove the wisdom of the people in maintaining the American Red Cross as their national and international relief agency. The readiness of the Red Cross for duty in the greatest of emergencies was also proved by test.

The record shows: Sept. 2, President Coolidge assigns the duty of raising $5,000,000 to the American Red Cross; Sept. 4, Red Cross chapters in over 3,500 communities given fund allotments; Sept. 12, fund totals $5,563,000; Sept. 17, fund nearly $8,000,000 and President announces formal closing of campaign; Sept. 27, fund passes $10,000,000 mark.

In 21 business days the Red Cross doubly performed the duty entrusted to it—all the while keeping a steady flow of relief supplies going out from many Pacific ports to the stricken areas in Japan. Thus was the confidence of the American people in their Red Cross justified and the wisdom of Red Cross preparedness to cope with an unprecedented relief emergency confirmed.

Evidently Had Lost Them

"Tom didn't blow his brains out last night when you rejected him," said one of the crowd to another girl. "He came 'round and proposed to me." "Indeed," remarked the other, "he must have got rid of them some other way."

"It is the Y. M. C. A. that I give credit for making me what I am today. I believe it is the best institution on earth for the young man and boy—especially the motherless boy, such as I was."—Henry A. Rogers.

WHY CONTRIBUTE TO THE Y. M. C. A.

It is the communities' provision to meet a community need in the lives of young men and boys. Money invested in the Y. M. C. A. is community insurance.

It is the only place of wholesome influence and supervised activities open every day and evening in the week to all classes of young men.

It specializes on the danger time—the leisure hours of young men—7:00 to 10:00. It is a safety zone. The preventative value alone of the Y. M. C. A. makes it worth while.

It provides a proper place for our boys—open at proper hours and under Christian leadership. It promotes a character-training program. Its work with boys guarantees strong manhood and better citizenship.

It is a movement that says to boys and men that they not only must be good, but good for something—and it shows them how.

"He who helps a boy become a strong and good man makes a contribution of the first class to the welfare of society,"—Phillips Brooks.

Three Diphtheria Cases in City

None of the Children Affected Had Received Immunization From Disease at City's Free Clinics—Health Board Held Brief Meeting Thursday.

Dr. Daniel Connelly, city health officer, reported to the board of health at the regular monthly meeting Thursday evening at the city hall, that since the first of the month three cases of diphtheria among children had been reported. One case is on Wall street, another on First avenue, and the third on Delaware avenue. Dr. Connelly said that none of the children afflicted with the disease had attended the free diphtheria clinics to receive injections of toxin-antitoxin.

During the past summer several free clinics for the prevention of diphtheria had been held at the city hall, under the auspices of the board of health, and 253 children attended and had been immunized from diphtheria. Dr. Connelly said he believed that the injection of toxin-antitoxin would assist materially in stamping out the disease in Kingston.

Mayor Morris Block presided at the meeting with Dr. Frederick Huhne, Charles L. McBride and Vis. C. D. Hasbrouck present. The reports of the officers which will be found elsewhere, were read and filed.

Dr. Connelly informed the board that the reinspection of the city schools had been completed by Dr. Harold Clarke, sanitary inspector.

Acting Plumbing Inspector Frank A. Myers and himself. They reported several recommendations which will be submitted to the board of education.

Bills and claims were read and audited, and the board adjourned.

New Palindrome Found

New palindromes are rare, but a western newspaper writer has revealed several especially good ones. A palindrome is merely a phrase that spells backward and forward. A classic example of the palindrome is the speech put into the mouth of Napoleon. "Able was I ere I saw Elba." Among the new ones sent was the following purporting to be a sign which a store manager placed over a rat catching preparation composed of Dutch cheese and tar. "Rat trap made in Eden, part tar." Years ago when "red root" was popular as a cure-all, a druggist's sign ran "Red root put up to order."

The event was also marked by contributions of $1,075 to the hospital. Dr. Neal is dean of the Ellenville medical profession.

The dinner was attended by the following physicians: George J. Wilklow, James C. Cole, Alice Dr. Vine, Joe Blumberg, John Weiss, of Ellenville, W. H. H. Hoar, Grahamsville, John A. Munson, Waverline, George F. Harker, Keenokson, J. E. Pearson, Phillipsport, M. Eugene Clark, president of the hospital board, and William L. Douglas, Clarence A. Hoonibek and Bert H. Tewillier, of the executive committee, were present as guests of the physicians.

Robert W. Chambers's most widely read novel "Between Friends" starring Lou Tellegen, Norman Kerry, Alice Calhoun and Anna Q. Nilsson is the attraction at Keeneey's tonight and tomorrow. It is a romance woven around the scripture, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." The short features are the Keeneey News, Topics of the day and a lively comedy, "Uncle Sam." The vaudeville program at the Kingston Opera House, made a sensational hit last night, "The Fighting Strains," a musical every act on the bill receiving round applause. Ardel Archer outdoor adventure and romance and Company featuring the world famous Time Sisters in a lively peppy song and dance revue was the hit of the program. This same bill will be presented again tonight and Saturday also the photoplay, "Virtuous Liars," starring David Powell and Edith Allen.

Good vaudeville is being offered at the Orpheum Theater for the last half of Anniversary Week. The picture "Tormet," is another big draw.

Slain Gangster Denied Rites of Church*DEAN O'BANNON

Burial rites have been denied in Chicago to Dean O'Bannon, gangster, who died as he had lived—by a gun. Years of crime, Bishop Edward P. Hoban declared, had ended his connection with the Church, which, however, granted permission to bury the body in the family plot as a non-member of the church, but there were no religious services. O'Bannon, who was shot down in a flower shop he ran, had been a gunman, rum runner, hijacker and all-round bad man.

Profitable Practice to

Feed Foals Fresh Grain

Foals should not be allowed to follow mares that are working on the farm, but should run together in a roomy, clean, well ventilated box stall or paddock. If a small pasture, surrounded by a good fence and containing shade is available, it makes a good place for foals. If fresh water is not available constantly, it should be supplied often.

The foals should be nursed morning, noon and night and allowed to run with their dams during the night. In this way they go through the summer in good condition and can be weaned without any setback.

Foals will learn to eat readily and it is profitable to let them have access to clean, fresh grain. Two parts crushed corn, two parts crushed oats and one part bran is a satisfactory mixture. If crushed grain is not available, shelled corn and shelled oats may be used.

Lip-Stick Indigestion

Follows Use of Rouge

Leipzig, Germany.—Lip-stick indigestion has developed here among young women who use rouge too freely, according to physicians. Many of the cosmetics, particularly the cheaper kinds, contain harmful ingredients, assert the doctors, which cause complications when they come in contact with food.

Victims of lip-stick attacks always maintain their illness had been caused by food or drink and are not inclined to change their habits unless they have suffered three or four severe seizures after dining in restaurants or cafes, where they have applied an unusual amount of red in endeavor to look their best.

Dinner to Open "Y" Campaign

Dinner Conference of Workers in Y. M. C. A. Maintenance Drive For $10,000 Will Be Held Monday—Final Meeting Tonight of Leaders.

Plans were completed today for the opening dinner conference of workers in the Y. M. C. A. maintenance campaign. The dinner will be held in the Association building Monday and will be served promptly at 6:30 p. m. Short addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Robert A. Greenwell, William C. Dewitt, general chairman of the campaign; Charles Ramsey, president of the Kingston Y. M. C. A., and Thomas R. Jordan of the International Committee Y. M. C. A. Following the dinner the prospect cards will be selected by the workers and the active campaign will begin at once. Every member of the campaign organization is expected to be present at this opening dinner.

The final meeting of the majors and captains before the opening of the campaign will be held in the association building this evening. Rapidly the campaign organization is being secured and the captains will at this meeting go over very carefully the steps thus far taken to secure the full quotas necessary to complete the organization. The first reports of the campaign will be given on Tuesday evening.

The campaign folder, which outlines the entire proposition, is today being mailed to the prospective subscribers. It tells in a strong, forceful, frank manner the reasons for the campaign and its appeal to the interests of the young men and boys of Kingston. It also refers to some of the splendid work that has been done in the past year by the local association.

The campaign is for the purpose of pledging $10,000 to carry on the work of the association for the ensuing year.

BIRD FANCIER
IS FOUND DEAD
IN DINGY ROOM

Always Preferred Feathered Tribe to Society of Humans.

Philadelphia.—The families that live in Fernber avenue knew old Michael Grochick as the man who liked birds better than he did people.

He used to say to them: "The birds, they are better. Always they are happy, but people"—and he would shrug his shoulders.

That was the reason Michael lived among the birds. Never a wife, never a friend lived with him. But the three rooms of his little house—it looks like a bird cage itself—were piled with crates in which Michael kept the canaries he raised for the pet stores.

Recently the neighbors found Michael dead in the second story room of the house. From a hundred cages lined against the wall canaries were chattering—possibly because they hadn't had breakfast yet.

The Body Was Sprawled on the Floor.

Sprawled on Floor.

Michael's heart had ceased beating as he was on his way to open the window. The body was sprawled on the floor midway between the bed and the smoky panes of glass.

It was little the police found in the house except supplies for the birds. There were 500 canaries at least, and grain enough for them. But on the first floor, aside from the cages, there were only a table, a cabinet, a chair, a throno of the ascension and a row of blue ribbons that Michael's birds had won him.

In the second floor room was a bed with a tattered comforter and 100 more cages. The attic was lined with crates. That was all.

On the downstairs table was a loaf of bread and a package of coffee, the only food in the house. Michael didn't spend much on his table, the neighbors confided. It all went to the birds.

Good Samaritan Aids

Jailbirds; Home Looted

Milwaukee.—Glean Henry's abiding faith in the basic goodness of mankind has been severely jolted.

Mr. Henry, who in business hours is credit manager of the Wisconsin Credit Clothing company, spends his leisure hours doing good to his needy brothers, making a specialty of assisting those whose errors have landed them in jail.

Last week he obtained the release on parole of a house of correction prisoner, took the man to his home, and helped him with carfare and suggestions in hunting a job. His protegee brought in a friend, who also needed help in getting started back on the straight path. The newcomer was also provided with temporary sleeping and eating quarters in the Henry home.

At night, when Mr. Henry returned after a few hours' absence, he found his welfare workers absent. So were a violin, a gun, a travelling bag and numerous other articles which had not been mailed down. The missing articles are worth about $75, he told police.

Thief Accepts $1 Loot

San Francisco.—"Give me that," commanded the uncouth stranger, as he approached Mrs. Eugenia T. Early at Colby and Bacon streets recently. "I will not," responded Mrs. Early in a very decided tone of voice. "A dollar is enough for you." The bandit took the dollar and meekly went his way.

Finds Needle in Hand

Adams, Mass.—Miss Amy Fuller of Savor had a needle removed from the palm of one hand by Dr. A. Desrochers, after having suffered for some time. She does not know when she picked up the needle, but believes it was some time ago. An incision was made which disclosed the needle.

Kills Heron

Franklin, Ky.—James Roark of the Providence country recently shot and killed a snow-white heron which was 4 feet and 4 inches in height, measured 4 feet and 9 inches from tip to tip and weighed only two pounds. The bird is a native of the Florida coasts.

DO YOU EVER GET TIRED OF THE SAME OLD MEALS?

By MARIA SPRINGETT

HOUSEWIVES occasionally become "sick and tired" of the job of getting three meals a day. They dread their planning, look with dislike on their preparation, and can hardly bring themselves to eat them.

Husbands sometimes experience the same sort of mood. They get disgusted at seeing the same eggs done the same way served for breakfast, and the same round of meats and vegetables ready for them in the evening.

There are several ways to overcome the dissatisfaction that arises at these times. Some people go out to restaurants and hotels for a few meals. Others, unfortunately, take it out on each other, getting very ill tempered and sometimes downright abusive without realizing what the cause is. Common sense souls are more apt to resort to another solution, really preferable to either of these devices, because it prevents such moments arriving. These persons vary meals so that the monotony of them is not obtrusive.

By the last method the housekeeper has the thrill of adventuring with new recipes, the husband has the pleasant surprise of viewing his wife's capacities and disposition in a new light, and the

to my tale. They were all invented by a recognized dietetic expert, who turned them over to me.

The first is:

Spanish Green Olives and Cabbage in Aspic

The materials needed for this are three-quarters cup of stuffed Spanish green olives cut in thin slices; one cup of shredded cabbage; three tablespoons of mayonnaise; and for the aspic five cups of soup stock, two envelopes of gelatine, one tablespoon of vinegar, two tablespoons of Chili sauce, two egg whites, and six to eight whole stuffed Spanish green olives.

The cabbage, sliced olives and mayonnaise are mixed. The aspic is made by dissolving the gelatine in one cup of cold soup stock, then adding the rest of boiling soup stock, the seasoning, and stiffly beaten egg whites. This is boiled for five minutes, then strained through a piece of flannel and set to cool. Next a little of the aspic stock is poured into a wet mold, the stuffed olives are arranged, and when the aspic is set around the olives more of the stock is poured on. The cabbage and olive mixture are added alternately with the aspic until all is used. It is then put aside to stiffen before being unmolded on a platter, garnished with shredded cabbage and a few stuffed olives.

This quantity serves ten people, but can be diminished according to the requirements of any household. You will likely agree that it adds variety to the festive board.

So will:

Minute Steaks Spanish Style

For this dish there are required twelve Spanish green olives, four minute steaks, half an onion, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, two tablespoons of drippings or fat, and six Spanish green olives for garnishing. The method of preparation is as follows: Rub one side of the steaks with the half onion, sprinkle with pepper. Pit the olives carefully, without breaking. Place three olives on each steak, roll. Tie the rolls with pieces of thin cord or thread. Place fat in frying pan and when hot add the rolls of meat. Cook until brown, turning constantly, for five to seven minutes. Serve with brown sauce containing a few chopped olives. Garnish with a pitted olive unrolled.

When the housewife becomes ambitious she may care to try also the third recipe:

Calf's Tongue With Spanish Green Olives

For this there are required three calves' tongues, four small carrots cut in cubes, one onion cut fine, one cup of Spanish green olives, one quart of boiling water, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon chopped parsley, two tablespoons of bread crumbs.

Soak the tongues in cold water for half an hour. Scald with boiling water, pour off. Cook tongues in the boiling water containing carrots, onion, parsley and pepper for one hour and a half. Remove the tongues, skin them, and return with one-half of the olives (chopped). Cook slowly one-half hour longer. Thicken the sauce by mixing the bread crumbs with two tablespoons of cold water. Cook five minutes longer. When on platter garnish with whole olives.

The next time you feel that dissatisfied attitude toward meal time try one of the above recipes. I am sure it will help.

Defer Action on Railroad Bills

Short Session of Congress Not Expected to Pass Legislation Although It May Pass House of Representatives—Cummins May Seek Compromise With LaFollette.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 14.—There will be no railroad legislation at the approaching short session of congress, despite the balance of power still held by the LaFollette insurgents and their united backing of the Barkley-Howell bill, a canvass today revealed.

This bill, fathered by the big brotherhoods and backed generally by organized railroad labor, would abolish the railroad labor board and set up a new plan for settling labor disputes in which the public would not have an equal voice, as under the present law. Railway executives and labor itself would control the new peace making machine.

The bill probably will pass the house, but a canvass has revealed that it is next to impossible to get it through the senate.

The fight against the Barkley-Howell bill will open in the house as soon as that body meets. The calendar on which the bill rests is called in the house for consideration the first and third Monday of each month. As congress convenes the first Monday in December the calendar is in order.

300 Dead in Landslides

By Telegraph to The Freeman

London, Nov. 14.—Three hundred persons are dead and scores missing in Batavia, Dutch East Indies, in landslides which followed two days of earthquake shocks, according to a news agency dispatch received here today. Towns in the Kedow district were wiped out. All buildings were razed in Wonosobo, a famous health resort in the center of the shock district.

A dispatch from Farenza, where the Bendam observatory is located, said that earthquake shocks of half an hour's duration were registered. The center of the disturbance was believed to be in the vicinity of the Balkans.

Doing Well

Some sportsmen were talking about how domestic fowls and animals sometimes revert to a wild life.

"A pigeon," declared one, "can always maintain itself if it can find a union station."

This trend of thought seemed so unusual that he was asked to explain which he did.

America's "Great Divide"

It runs in a zigzag line from northwestern Montana through Idaho and Colorado and ends in southwestern New Mexico near the Arizona border.

No Parcel Mail Christmas Day

Postmaster Walter P. Crane announced today that Christmas parcels for delivery on rural routes should be mailed to reach the delivery office at least three or four days before Christmas. Last year Christmas was a holiday for the first time on rural routes and since no complaint resulted from suspension of the service, the same rule will be observed this year.

PLAN TO PUT ALL ON EQUAL BASIS

A plan formulated by A. Flick of Boone, Iowa, to place the burden of war equally upon all shoulders is unique in some particulars. The plan as suggested by Mr. Flick, follows:

"Now that Defense day is over and an inventory has been taken of the man power available in case of war it behooves us to find out what wealth is available and also what steps can be taken to make war less profitable in the future. I would suggest the following," declared Mr. Flick: "That in case of war, the government take over all industries and make every one work for the same pay as the soldier which at the present time is one dollar per day and keep. In case of families, every one capable of working should work, and the government should take care of the children and the sick. I believe food should be dish out to private families the same as to the soldier the government taking over everything, the grocery stores included, the clerks working for one dollar per day. The sick should be taken care of in government hospitals; the children should go to school; teachers paid one dollar per day; doctors should get but one dollar per day; the women should be cooks and nurses at one dollar per day. All able men should go to the front, except those needed to transact other business."

Mr. Flick further pointed out: "If the government took over all industries, and put everyone on an equal basis, during the war, there would be no soaring prices, there would be no millionaires made through the distress of others. There would be no one left at home to draw immense wages while the boys are sacrificing their lives at the front. Can anyone be a true patriot when he is willing that the other fellow risk his life for one dollar and keep, if he or she does not even want to work in safety for the same pay as the soldier? Such a patriot can salute the flag, cheer the armies as they go by to the front as long as he is making a good living but put him on the same payroll as the soldier and he will tell you are talking against your country."

"Besides the above I think those who do the fighting should have the say whether or not there should be war except in case of invasion, when every true American will jump to the defense of his country without waiting for the call to arms. In conclusion I want to reiterate that I believe these is no better organization than the American Legion to take up this question of equal burden in time of war."

Twenty Thousand Raised to Build New Club House

Two hours to raise the $20,000 necessary to build their club house is the record of frenzied finance established by the Theodore Roosevelt post of the American Legion at Enunclaw, Wash., and this despite the fact that Enunclaw is no metropolis. Pressed for details of the accomplishment,

William Burns, post commander, nonchalantly remarked: "Well, it was simple. To begin with, we have a good live membership, one of the liveliest Auxiliary units found anywhere, and a very live bunch of citizens behind us. We issued $20,000 worth of bonds (3 per cent, ten years) which were all grabbed up in less than two hours by Legion members and local citizens. That's all there was to it."

Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil). The inventor, R. V. Johnson, 642 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them with Creosolium, an emulsified creosote as pleasant to take. Creosolium is a new medical discovery with twofold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creosolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creosolium is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after a cold or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creosolium Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Farm Census This Winter

Blanks Will Be Distributed by Rural Carriers—Enumerators Will Visit Farms Later—All Information Confidential.

The last agricultural census was taken January 1, 1920, covering the year 1919, when farming had reached the highest point of prosperity in many years. Another census is to be taken this winter which will measure the changes that have taken place since that time, and will more accurately reflect present farm conditions. There are great differences of opinion as to the exact status of agriculture. This census will be of great value in establishing the facts. It will also give a better basis for making plans for readjusting the farm business to present conditions. It is the first Federal census of agriculture to be taken separately from the ten-year census of population. It is hoped that it may be the best census ever taken.

The enumerators will make a farm to farm canvass. All enumerators and other census officials are under oath to keep confidential all information obtained from individuals. The enumeration in New York state is to begin December 1st. At about this time sample blanks will be distributed by the rural carriers to all the farmers on their routes. Each farmer should carefully fill in all the information called for that applies to his farm. The blank should then be kept until the enumerator calls. He will explain any questions that were not understood and copy the information for his record. It is strongly urged that every farmer fill out the blank promptly as it will make the work of the enumeration easier and more accurate and will save much time.

For census purposes a farm is all the land which is directly farmed by one person either by his own labor alone, or with the assistance of members of his family or hired men. It may include either owned or rented land, or both. It includes market gardens, truck and fruit gardens, nurseries, greenhouses, poultry establishments, and country or village dairies, if they use three acres of land or more, or if their 1924 products were valued at $250 or more.

While there are a large number of questions listed on the schedule, which is uniform for the whole United States, there are many that do not apply to New York state and still less that apply to any individual farm.

GOLD GALORE FOR EVENING.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Although one finds a great many beaded frocks at smart gatherings, there is a desire often expressed among women for plainer types.

One of the most important notes of the season, to date, is the vast amount of gold which appears everywhere. There are black and gold, and white and gold evening gowns; brocades, in some instances, and gold lace ones galore. There are gold paillettes used instead of beads, gold embroideries, and many rich gold fabrics, smooth or crinkled, as is one's preference. There are also many golden velvets, ambers, tawny topaz shades, and every blonde tone from a very neutral color to a golden champagne shade. Yes, gold is impressive to a degree this season!

The great percentage of evening gowns are extremely short, and whether or not they flare, is for the individual to decide. There are some frocks with a molded line which flare out in a circular skirt, and there are still the skirt and top of which are of contrasting materials and color. Tulle skirts frequently have satin bodices. One noted recently had a three-tiered black tulle skirt, and a flesh-colored crepe satin bodice, slightly molded and ending just below the natural waistline in scallops which were embroidered with gold threads onto the tulle. One can hardly overemphasize the importance of wearing flowers this winter—orchids preferred. They need not be fresh ones, fortunately, for fashion is countenancing the artificial type. Flowers are worn on the shoulder, and so, by the way, are brooches.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Nov. 13.—Friday afternoon last Vineyard avenue was a scene of heavy traffic when members of the Auxiliary Club assembled at the home of Mrs. Lorin Schantz for a business and social session. Over fifty visitors were present, also a number of guests. Everyone was cordially received and welcomed by Mrs. L. Schantz and her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Wilcox, who were the hostesses. Business was taken up and disposed of without a hitch. Plans were finished for the turkey dinner. Also plans were formulated for a fine sale and entertainment on December 5. There will be fancy fish pond, quilts, extracts of various kinds, tooth paste, parcel post and the entertainment will be given by twelve ladies. There was one new member added to the ranks, Mrs. H. Coultant. These club women are workers. Reports given from standing and special committees were encouraging. Many discussions were taken up, new committees appointed and everything was satisfactory. Then sociability reigned and the repast served by these ladies, consisting of bread sticks, chicken salad, pickles, cottage cheese balls, salted nuts, angel cake and coffee, was fit for a king and was greatly enjoyed and appreciated by all. There were many expressions of gratitude given the hostesses. Among the galaxy of meetings stands the one at the L. Schantz home on November 7.

Charges Rounds Were Shortened.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 14.—Inspector Platt Adams will confer with Boxing Commissioner Bugby at Trenton before taking further action on his charges that two of the rounds of the Firpo-Weinert bout were cut short, it became known today. Adams charged the official timekeepers with shortening the rounds to favor Weinert, who in one of them, the eighth, was in a dangerous position on the ropes when the bell rang. The timekeepers have replied that both of their watches had agreed on the ending of the rounds.

Arch Rivals in Saturday's Games

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 14.—Arch rivals of intercollegiate football will go to the mat tomorrow in one of the biggest days on the gridiron calendar for 1924.

It will inaugurate the open season on traditional enemies, and if there are any skulls cracking to be done among the leaders, tomorrow will see it accomplished.

Witness, for example, the following meetings between teams that have been rivals of prolonged standing: Yale and Princeton, Notre Dame and Nebraska, Ohio State and Michigan, Pennsylvania and Penn State, Cornell and Dartmouth, Pittsburgh and W. and J., Kansas and Oklahoma, Grinnell and Iowa State, Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt, Alabama and Centre College and Georgia and Alabama Poly. These constitute the big moments of a football schedule.

They feature most of the undefeated sectional leaders, Yale, Pennsylvania, Notre Dame, Dartmouth, Alabama, et al., in what may prove to be the roughest stretch of road they may face on their way to a possible championship.

GRADUAL DWINDLING OF EAST SUPREMACY

Effete Sections Forced to Admit West Coming Fast.

It has come gradually but surely, and now it has reached a crunch—the East no longer rules the country in football, writes E. W. Smith in the Chicago American. The West has been coming along with mighty strides. It is not a matter of guesswork, this claim that one team is better than another. Intersectional games have removed the doubt of it all. The West has arrived.

Notre Dame has done much to help along this process, and will do more. So has Chicago and so has Iowa. They, too, will do more.

Just recently Brown's Bears came along, admittedly in as perfect shape as it is possible for a big squad to be. They had beaten Colby, a light team, a week before 45 to 0 and were quite chesty. They played Chicago, which had been beaten a week before by Missouri. Stagg's men whipped them to ribbons, 10 to 7.

Notre Dame trounced the Army and the Rockne legion of followers believe almost anything is possible that Knute puts his hand to.

In 1922, Iowa, without its Devine boys and sans Slater, took Yale to a merry 69 defeat.

If the East isn't actually fading, then the West is looming amazingly.

K. H. S. Eleven At Newburgh

Saturday afternoon the Kingston High School Varsity football team will lineup against the Newburgh Academy eleven at Newburgh at 2:30.

Coaches Dumm and Benson have been putting the local boys through some stiff practices this week. Every night the varsity scored at least three touchdowns against the scrubs.

Newburgh is concentrating all its practice toward the coming struggle and is expecting a flood of forward passes from the local eleven.

Saturday's contest will probably prove one of the hardest ever played between these two schools. By comparative scores Kingston has the edge on her opponents. The high school band and several hundred rooters will accompany the team. Last Saturday afternoon at the Fair Grounds the local eleven threw off the jinx of the former games of the season in defeating the heretofore undefeated St. Stephen's scrubs and they will try hard to keep their slate clean for the rest of the season.

British to Ignore Golf Ball Change in America

Conservative old St. Andrews, whence the game of golf spread around the world, does not approve of the new ball which it is proposed to standardize in the United States.

There is no quarrel with the American attitude that the balls now in use are a little too lively and carry too far when hit by powerful drivers; on that the British players who compose the golf balls subcommittee of the Royal and Ancient Golf club agree with their brethren across the Atlantic. But it is their opinion that the bigger and lighter ball proposed in America is so small a change from those now in use that it doesn't really make much difference. The committee intends, however, to go ahead with its own tests designed to bring about a new standard in golf balls.

Meanwhile, should the change take place, British golfers visiting America will have to play with the American standard ball, and when Americans invade England in quest of titles and trophies of the game they must use the smaller, heavier and longer-carrying British ball.

Marberry's Short Career

Fred Marberry, baseball player with the Washington Senators, rose quickly from a bush league to star in a world's series. He started his professional baseball career with the Mexico team of the Texas-Oklahoma league in 1922, having been picked up by Manager Roy Altin. A scout for the Little Rock team saw Marberry strike out 14 men in a game with the Sherman team and paid $750 for him. He went from Little Rock to Washington.

Gull Beautiful Bird

Many feathered scavengers are uncouth, repulsive and awkward in flight, but the herring gull is a thing of beauty and exceedingly graceful under wing, a master of the air currents, gliding with perfection. He soars over the city, follows the river craft, perches upon the channel buoys, and may often be found in flocks resting upon the waters of inland ponds and reservoirs. Unlike other water birds, he is not shy; on the contrary, he is very friendly, perhaps because he has few enemies and is protected not only in the harbors but in the breeding rookeries.

Seed From Tomb Grows

Tacoma, Wash.—F. H. Johnston, a farmer, has just harvested a bumper crop of wheat that he says came from seed taken from an Egyptian tomb. Mr. Johnston says he got the seeds four years ago and this year the increase was enough to plant 15 acres. The grain is white, very hard, and the straw is short and Johnston says it is one of the best varieties of spring wheat he has ever grown.

Does He Appreciate It?

Chin Chin, diminutive Pekinese, seems to take it as a matter of course that his mistress, Rosa Ponselle, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, shall minister to his wants. Miss Ponselle, who recently arrived from abroad, also brought with her a pet fox, which she calls Gioconda.
